

NEW AGE Pt. 29: MANTRAS, CHANTING

Last week we learned that mantras are names of Hindu deities or words and praises to Hindu deities which are fallen angels. They are considered sacred but not in Christianity, so there is religious meaning attached to using a mantra and magic is equated to them as well. There is a belief in supernatural power and experiences through the use of mantras. The truth is that using mantras opens the person up to demonic interaction in their lives. One explanation was that a mantra is a vehicle which will bring a practitioner of transcendental meditation into direct contact with an unmanifest, pure, perfect, eternal, and infinite field of life, the field of pure creative intelligence. This pure creative intelligence is going to be a demon from the kingdom of darkness.

Mantras are repeated, chanted to aid in concentration and meditation. Harvey Alper suggests that from a set of millions of mantras, the devotee chooses some mantras voluntarily, thus expressing that speaker's intention, and the audience for that mantra is that speaker's chosen spiritual entity.

Mantras took a center stage in Tantric traditions,<sup>[35]</sup> which made extensive ritual and meditative use of mantras, and posited that each mantra is a deity in sonic form.

In this research, the devotee chooses their own mantra and they choose what fallen angel they are summoning. Instead of calling it a fallen angel, they use the term deity or even angel. But holy angels will not respond to any of this. Each mantra is a deity in sonic form. This is the same as the earlier explanation from transcendental meditation where they said the practitioner would come in contact with an unmanifest field of pure creative intelligence. They are speaking of the spirit realm. Unmanifest beings which you cannot see but you are using frequencies, your voice, sonic waves to summon them. You are summoning demonic power when you use mantras and chant.

Practicing with a mantra – a sacred sound form – of the goddess is a particularly powerful way to experience your own inner spiritual energy. Of all the mantras associated with deity practice, the most important are the ‘seed’ syllable mantras, or bijas. Bija mantras are sounds that are said to contain the essence of a particular sacred energy – a deity presence – in the same way that an acorn contains the embryonic oak. When you combine the syllable with the name of the goddess, your practice will, in time, bring her energy alive in you. Each one of the goddesses is invoked with a particular mantra.

They lay it out plain here and state through chanting these mantras you are summoning these different deities (fallen angels) and eventually whatever demon you are summoning, it will manifest inside of you. That will be the energy and experience that new agers talk about and many continue seeking more of.

For instance, one of the most famous goddess mantras is the bija (seed syllable) aim, pronounced 'ayeem.' Aim is associated with the goddess saraswati ('the flowing one') whose energy is associated with sacred sound, creative imagination, music, eloquent speech, poetic inspiration, and spiritual wisdom. Poets and musicians as well as school children in India invoke saraswati in order to call forth their own musical and linguistic abilities. Meditating on saraswati with her seed mantra combined with her name can kindle your hidden creative gifts – and also tune you into the hidden sacred sounds that arise in meditation and carry you into the heart. The following meditation is a simple way to call on the energy of saraswati through sacred sound: For obvious reasons I am not sharing that meditation.

In the tantric school, these mantras are believed to have supernatural powers, and they are transmitted by a preceptor to a disciple in an initiation ritual.

Majumdar and other scholars<sup>[3][49]</sup> suggest mantras are central to the Tantric school, with numerous functions. From initiating and emancipating a tantric devotee, to worshiping manifested forms of the divine. From enabling heightened sexual energy in the male and the female to acquiring supernormal psychological and spiritual power.

Notice they mention the devotee can begin to worship a manifested form of whatever deity they have sought out. So the demon when properly summoned and worshiped can manifest. The heightened sexual energy, supernormal psychological and spiritual power are all supernatural demonic power manifested in the person's life because they have sought it out and done the proper rituals, worship, chanting, brought the proper sacrifices etc. The fallen angels will come to you when you do these things and you will have supernatural experiences brought to you by the kingdom of darkness.

Mantra Japa repeats the mantra a certain number of times to add more power to what the person is trying to achieve. They also use a certain number of beads, counting each bead as they chant the mantra. Think about prayer beads and rosary beads, these are not godly.

This reminds me of what someone shared in a comment on one of the sermons once, they said in witchcraft, the more a number repeats the more power it brings into the spell or curse or whatever they are trying to achieve.

The gayatri mantra is considered one of the most universal of all Hindu mantras, invoking the universal Brahman as the principle of knowledge and the illumination of the primordial sun. The mantra is extracted from the 10th verse of hymn 62 in book III of the rig veda. In Hinduism – Brahman is the source from which everything came and to which everything will return. In Christianity this is God but Brahman is not the God of Scripture, not Jesus and not The Holy Spirit so if it isn't The Trinity, then it is from the kingdom of darkness and that is what is being invoked with this mantra.

There are thirteen mantras used in Shingon Buddhism, each dedicated to a major deity.

Another example of a Taoist mantra is found in one of the most popular liturgies in Taoism (dating from the Tang dynasty), the Pei-tou yen-sheng ching (The North Star Scripture of Longevity), which contains a long mantra called the "North Star Mantra." The text claims that this mantra "can deliver you from disaster," "ward off evil and give you prosperity and longevity," "help you accumulate good deeds" and give you peace of mind.

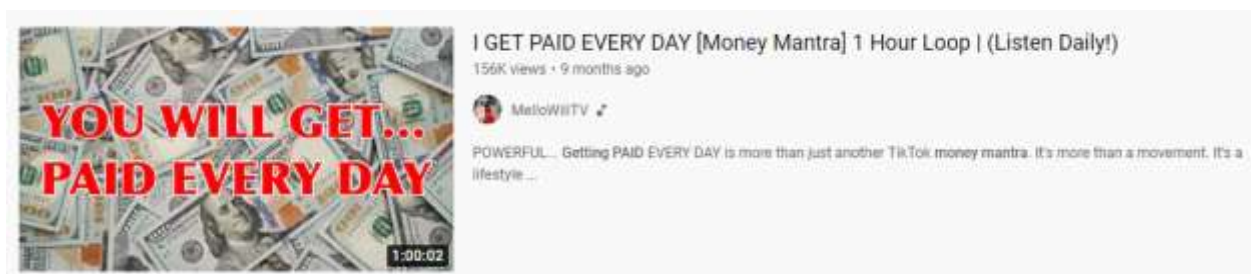

Acharya Sushil Kumar, a self-realized master of the secrets of the Mantra, wrote in 1987: "There is a deep, secret science to the combination of sounds. Specific syllables are seeds for the awakening of latent powers.

"Awakening of latent powers" is speaking of demonic power being summoned into the person's life.

CHANTING

Mantras are chanted. Witches also chant spells and curses.

Money spell chants that work immediately money manifestation magic. These money spells chants are great for attracting instant money. Spells and chants for manifestation of money can work real...Witches use mantras and chant. Don't think that they are a separate category, the new ager who is chanting is also practicing witchcraft because there are many ways to practice witchcraft which is idolatry against God. They are seeking the spirit realm and since they are not seeking Jesus that means they are in sin against God, seeking idols which are called other gods.

Matt.6:7 - But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

New Living Translation

"When you pray, don't babble on and on as the Gentiles do. They think their prayers are answered merely by repeating their words again and again.

So here is our main scripture that tells us as Christians, we are not to be involved in chanting. God hears those that have come to Him through Christ. We should always reverence Him and praise Him and just pour your heart out and let Him know what's on your mind and heart. When you are in Christ and living a righteous life you never have to wonder if He is hearing you, He is.

From the court case against transcendental meditation in New Jersey, regarding "laws of nature":

We saw tapes of Maharishi where he repeatedly explained that the sounds of the mantras, especially as one approaches transcendence, had the effect of summoning very refined "impulses of creative intelligence." In other tapes, he explained that the "impulses of creative intelligence" or "laws of nature" were devas (Hindu deities) such as Indra, Agni, and so forth. He also explicitly said that in the proper state of consciousness, that repeating the name of "impulses of creative intelligence" in Sanskrit had the effect of creating or summoning the "form."

The whole point of chanting these mantras over and over and over is that you are calling the demon over and over and over or praising the demon over and over and over and this is all a way to have them enter your life and ultimately manifest.

Chanting is found in new age, Hinduism, voodoo, witchcraft, in satanism which are all idolatry. Idolatry is seeking and serving other gods which is what all of this is all about. The other "gods" are demons. Witches work with demons, that is where their power comes from. New Agers having these experiences with high vibrations and raising their energy levels, it's the same thing, it's interaction with demons, demons coming inside their bodies and into their lives. That's what the power surges and feeling enlightened and all of a sudden knowing things is, it is demonic power now on the inside of the person.

Listen to this: Chanting can be a powerful tool in our yoga practice from a Christian perspective. Many of the benefits of chanting prepare body, breath, mind and heart for entering into centering prayer. Our breath rate and blood pressure lower, the body and mind receives a wash of healing voice overtones, negative emotions are released and the mind is focused and alert. The heart has received truth and our inner being is seeking unity with God. The outer consciousness is ready to resonate to the Divine Presence within and we move into interior silence.

There are so many Christians caught up in new age to varying degrees. Learn to discern this kind of vocabulary because it isn't Biblical and a Christian has no business practicing any part of yoga, not the stretches nor the mantras and chants.

From a Satan worshipper:

Satanic chanting: One of the best ways to open a door to the Other Side, so to speak, is by chanting or mantra. When used assiduously, a name chant can put one in touch with the object of the chant, through identification. "You ARE that."

You should be comfortable with your chant. It should feel natural to you.

Don't pick a mantra or chant simply because it seems "arcane" or mystical or exotic. This is a mistake many people make. They start chanting one of the sanskrit mantras without a proper idea of the meaning--and they end up in a Hindu monastery somewhere, eating a lot of rice, and praying to some indian yogi, while giving up their lives to an alien culture!

The eventual payoff? Chanting satan-lucifer's name will give you a kind of freedom no-one can prepare you for. You'll be identifying yourself with the ULTIMATE personage of freedom itself. Not only that, but you'll experience his presence in a real way. He will give you an inner strength which will help you to conquer any and all problems in your life. On top of all this, you will have a relationship with him. You will know him as father, brother, and dearest friend...indeed, he will become a part of you. His name will become like a shield to protect you from the dogma of fools...

So there's a raw inside scoop on the truth of all this chanting business. They speak of chanting to satan/lucifer and they say he will become part of you and give you strength and you will know him intimately. He will protect you and give you strength etc. Now, satan does not possess every person that seeks him. He will however, send his demons to answer that call. He is not omnipresent as Christ is. He will possess the antichrist in the future. He did enter into Judas when he betrayed Jesus. So this satanist just gave us the 411 on how chanting works, you pick your deity and chant to them and they will enter your physical life and body and begin to do supernatural things in and through your life. The things they do and respond to are always to keep you on the hook and take you deeper in and away from Christ, away from the truth which is Who Jesus is.

Phi.4:13 – I can do all things through Christ Who strengthens me.

Christ gives the christian strength!! He created satan, and the thing that was created will never have more power than the One Who Created it. I'm going to Christ for strength, it would just be dumb to seek the devil for power or protection when Jesus holds all the power. For a Christian who lives an obedient life, you will always have more power than any witch, luciferian, satanist will ever have because you have The Holy Spirit inside of you. There is no reason for us to be scared of them. But if you are a compromised Christian, dabbling in sinful things, then you better watch out because they can kill you.

The satanist said satan is like a shield to protect you from dogma of fools.

Psalm 28:7 – The LORD is my strength and my shield; my heart trusted in Him, and I am helped: therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth; and with my song will I praise Him.

The LORD is our strength and shield. He protects His children and He teaches us truth through His Word by The Holy Spirit. When we feed on God's Word and grow up in the faith, we will not be deceived into the dogma of fools such as the satanist was sharing.

When they use these mantras they are seeking enlightenment, immortality, peace, prosperity, wealth, fame, protection etc. Mantras can stand for different parts of reality like wisdom or compassion. **Wisdom isn't just out there somewhere, that's what we get from God and so is compassion. He made us with feeling and emotion. We can get some wisdom from living and having different life experiences but these are not things that are out in space as part of reality.**

When you practice new age and mantras and chanting, the devil sees that you are not walking intimately with Jesus, you don't know God's Word. You are opening yourself up more and more to him with each layer of deceit you believe and put into practice and his goal is to be your god. He can make you "feel" good and give you the experience you are seeking so that he can capture you in his cage.

They are not seeking Jesus in any of this. When something they sought after manifests – like money, they are being answered by satan and his kingdom. satan and the fallen angels are spirit beings with supernatural power and they can cause things to manifest in a person's life. They have power but they will never be as powerful as Christ.

2 Thess.2:9 - Even him, whose coming is after the working of satan with all power and signs and lying wonders,

New Living Translation

This man will come to do the work of Satan with counterfeit power and signs and miracles.

New Living Translation

This man will come to do the work of satan with counterfeit power and signs and miracles.

satan, a fallen angel, a spirit being has power to do miracles and he will empower the antichrist and do miracles to deceive this whole world.

Matthew 24:24 - For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

This tells us satan's ministers will be right in the churches performing miracles. We had better start realizing there are supernatural powers at work in this world and learn to discern whether they are of God or not. The church likes to believe it won't be deceived but I don't know very many who are truly awake to the wickedness going on in this world and understand how it is being accomplished.

CLOSING

Most people don't want to put in the time and effort to serve God, they want material blessings and things that satan offers right here, right now in this life with no waiting. God does not operate like that. He wants a real relationship with you, He wants your heart. He wants those that are hungry for Jesus and want to know Him sincerely. He wants those that are after righteousness. I would rather wait on God and have His blessing on my life now and in the hereafter, than chase all of these supernatural experiences from the kingdom of darkness.
